HARRY HUGHES' TRIAL

The Prosecution Said There Was No Law

BUT THE MAYOR OVERRULED

Little Trouble In Securing a Jury This Afternoon—The Trial Is for the Playing of Cards in a Saloon and Will Be Hard Fought.

The trial of Harry Hughes, the Fourth street saloonist who is charged with permitting the playing of cards in his saloon, began this afternoon at 1 o'clock. Attorney Brookes defending him and Solicitor Clark fighting for the city.

The original panel from which the jurors were selected contained the names of F. M. Foutts, Charles Rose, John Reese, C. B. Simms, D. F. Nellis, William McCray, J. M. Larkins, William Mercer, Thomas Farmer, J. M. Aten, Robert Hailes, F. D. Kitchell, Al Scott, Howard Marshall, W. E. Cooper, Thos. Starkey, Sr.

The case was called shortly after 2 o'clock, with twelve of the sixteen jurors in their places, and the court room more than comfortably filled, despite the warm weather, and it was plain that the audience expected a most interesting case. A long delay was caused by some of the original venire being absent, and one of them, Thomas Farmer, was sent for by Chief Gill.

Attorney Brookes, as counsel for the defense, made the following motion: "The defendant moves the court to dismiss said case at the costs of said city, for the reason that said charge does not state a cause of action or any violation of any valid ordinance of said city."

The motion was promptly overruled and an exception noted. At this juncture Thomas Farmer arrived and escaped a reprimand by saying that he had not seen the summons. The defense challenged J. M. Aten and Thomas Starkey, Sr., took his place. The prosecution excused Howard Marshall and it was found that the panel was exhausted. James Smith was called from the audience. The defense said they were satisfied but the prosecution was not. They excused Mr. Starkey and called E. D. Williams. The jury was then sworn.

Solicitor Clark in stating the nature of the case to the jury thought the defense would be that the room in which the cards were played is not a part of the saloon. He cautioned the jury to weigh particularly the evidence on this point as it was an all important one. In his conjectures he was correct as Mr. Brookes immediately afterward addressed the jury and asked them to understand that the entire building where a saloon was located could not be called a saloon. "It will be necessary to show," said Mr. Brookes "in case this room is a part of the saloon, that Mr. Hughes knew they were playing cards. This I think the city will have a hard time to prove."

Officers Earle and Jennings, J. S. Weaver, Willis Cuning, George Zink and A. K. Adams were the witnesses for the city.

Willis Cuning was called. He testified that the room in the rear of Hughes' saloon was furnished with tables and chairs. At least he took a view of it about a week ago. He did not see any liquor served there, however. "I merely went through to the kitchen to get some butter. I have had beer in the room in question. Don't know if others were there at the time. I never 'obtained' beer in that room. I have bought it. Carried it in there and drank it. I have also carried it in for other persons but can't remember of acting as bartender or receiving any pay for beer carried in."

Cross examined by Mr. Brookes: "Hughes and his family occupies the rooms back and above. The room between the kitchen and side room is furnished with tables, chairs and lounge and is used as parlor. The room just back of the saloon is furnished with pictures, carpet and furniture."

The trial is in progress as the News Review goes to press.

SELLING A SHOW.

The Kinneman Show Could Stand It No Longer.

Constable Cunningham is today selling at auction the Kinneman circus that has been in town for several days. Kinneman owed the Ohio River railroad $38, but they gave him 30 days in which to pay it. The time ended today and the chattel mortgage was closed. The debt was contracted at Parkersburg. The circus started from Mayesville, Ken., with 45 people, and has had bad luck from the start. Some of the players were in the Diamond last night, and will be there again tonight hoping to get enough money to keep them going for the owner is almost penniless, and cannot meet his obligations. One of the chief performers is H. A. Comer who played last season with the "New Boy" and "Charley's Aunt." It is rumored today that Kinneman, who is an old theatrical manager, will be the next head of the Grand Opera House, but the story could not be traced to any authority.

THE DESPISED WATER DOG.

Is Said to Have a Fine Flavor and Be Good to Eat.

The water dog, that hideous object which causes a shiver of disgust to crawl down the spine of the fisherman who hauls him out of the water, has been found useful as food. The discovery was made a few evenings ago by some campers from New Castle who had come into the unwilling possession of one of them. It was suggested that some use be made of it, and it was accordingly prepared for the frying pan in the same manner as fish. The dog was 12 inches long, but the campers ate every morsel, declaring it equal to catfish. It lacked the bones of a small fish, and had a flavor greatly relished by the campers, who are now searching only for water dogs.

FIX THE SQUARE.

It Looks Like a Desert and Demands Attention.

The appearance of the square, particularly that portion until recently occupied by the patrol station and stable, is nothing short of disgraceful. There is not one redeeming feature about the place to make it attractive or even passably beautiful unless it be the shining countenances of the officials at city hall. The corner occupied by city hall, thanks to the vines on the south side, looks very well, but the bareness of the other three corners is the cause of constant comment, and one business man today remarked: "Thank goodness this isn't close to the depot."

FOR LABOR DAY.

Trades Council to Hold a Special Meeting and Prepare.

Nothing of importance was done at the meeting of Trades council last evening except the discussion of plans for the observance of Labor Day. It was decided that these preparations could be better made at a special meeting, and one was called for next Wednesday evening. The celebration last year was a pronounced success, but it is proposed to make the gathering this year of even greater proportions. Already some of the locals have commenced to move, and some novelties are expected from the many busy brains that will soon be at work.

AN EXCITED COMMUNITY.

The People Did Not Sleep Last Night, But Patiently Waited.

There is excitement at Pottstown, a community on the river shore, a short distance above Smith's Ferry, and the people did not sleep last night. Strong indications of oil have been noticed in that region for months, and the people have been expecting great things when the well now being drilled comes in. The upward tendency of oil caused the well, and land owners who think there is oil under their ground if it is under any in that vicinity have watched developments. Last night there was little sleep in that village, and excitement ran high.

FREE FROM THE PEST.

Chinch Bugs Have Not Yet Appeared in This County.

Farmers in this vicinity are congratulating themselves because the chinch bug, which is killing corn in 11 counties of the state, has not yet appeared here. The bug can not fly, and walks in great numbers through the fields and when they attack the corn they sap the life out of it, and it is left a withering stalk. The expert station is distributing a muscardine fungus disease that is a deadly enemy of the bug being as contagious as cholera but harmless to man. The report that the bugs were seen in Madison township was a mistake.

RIFLED A REFRIGERATOR.

The Thief Stole All There Was In It, Even the Ice Water.

The refrigerator owned by a gentleman residing on Fifth street was rifled last night by a sneak thief, whose identity is suspected. The ice box contained some vegetables, milk, meat and a pitcher of water cold as the ice itself. When the discovery was made this morning the owner expected to see the provisions gone, but when he found that even the ice water had been taken his anger knew no bounds. The refrigerator is located on the back porch, and will be protected tonight by a hasp and padlock.

THE OLD GAME WON'T GO

Republicans Want A Fair Representation

AT THE JUDICIAL CONVENTION

Lisbon Had More Than Its Share of Delegates Last Year, and Republicans Are Objecting—The Men To Go To Youngstown Have Not Been Chosen.

The next important event in political matters is the judicial convention at Youngstown next month, and some people are wondering who will make up the 13 delegates from this county.

When the convention was held in Wellsville last year there was a marked absence of delegates from the southern part of the county, and consequently a monstrous kick from those who should have been interested, but neglected the matter until it was too late. Lisbon had the big end of the delegation, far more than the number to which it was entitled, and local politicians want to see no more of it. As yet the delegates for the Youngstown convention have not been chosen and in the absence of W. L. Smith, county chairman, no one knows when a meeting will be held. As there seems to be no prospect of a contest, and the convention will decide on the gentleman who was recently appointed to fill the place of the late Judge Woodbury the only interest is in the quota of delegates from this end of the county. In referring to the matter a well known Republican said:

"This county can be divided to give each township its right number of delegates better than any county in the state, and I hope the convention or the committee or whoever selects the delegates will remember that the county is not Lisbon. Last year they had it all to themselves at the Wellsville convention, and this year we want not all of it, but at least our share. Liverpool and St. Clair township should have four delegates as they had at Zanesville and Wellsville and Madison could be nicely combined to give its legal quota. I want to see the southern part of the county get as much justice as any other part, and I hope there will be no cause for us to object this time. All we want is a just representation, and no more."

SEVERAL DRUNKS

But Only One Was Arrested Last Night, Police News.

Hughy Tolan was among the many who imbibed too freely last night and was the only unfortunate who came under the heading of "no visible means of support" in police parlance. Hughy was paralyzed when Chief Gill found him at Jackson and Second streets about 5:30 o'clock yesterday evening, so the chief called the patrol and the maudlin victim was hauled to jail. He got $6.90.

A half dozen drunks were observed on Sixth street last night, several occupying more of the sidewalk than they were assessed for "per front foot," etc., but it is presumed that all arrived safely at their homes, as no record appears of their having called at city hall.

POPULIST--DEMOCRAT.

A Politician Thinks They Will Fuse This Year.

"Unless I am much mistaken," said a politician of importance in local affairs to a representative of this paper, "the Populists and Democrats in this county would like to stand together this year in open fusion against the Republican ticket. I have been talking with members of each side, and they seem to take kindly to the plan. The Populist who first mentioned it to me says that he used to be a Democrat, but he couldn't stand Cleveland's financial policy, and the only thing left for him was to follow Coxey. He is willing enough to be a Populist in national affairs, but thinks their only chance to win is to get together on the county ticket. Even then they wouldn't be in it," and that sentence tells the truth.

LAST PART OF HIS LEG.

Frank Whitacre Found Bleeding Beside the Track.

Frank Whitacre, a Wellsville man residing on Second street, had one of his feet cut off by a train last night. He was found this morning by Abraham Clark, who heard groans when he passed a spot near the rolling mill. He investigated, and found Whitacre almost unconscious from suffering and lost of blood, and at once called for help. The injured man was taken home, and made as comfortable as possible. The foot was amputated above the ankle. Whitacre is unable to tell how the accident occurred, but it is believed he went to sleep on the track.

MANY WITHOUT MUZZLES.

The Dog Proclamation Is Not Generally Being Obeyed.

Mayor Gilbert's proclamation calling upon the owners of dogs to muzzle them is not being generally observed in some parts of the city, and arrests may follow. In a group of canines seen on Washington street this morning there were five dogs, and only one wore a muzzle. A family of dogs seen on Fifth street were innocent of this requirement, and another bunch on Broadway looked as though they had never seen a muzzle. A dog owner whose dog is muzzled thought this was unfair, and suggested the law be enforced or observed by no one.

DECREASED PATRONAGE.

The Diamond Well Not as Popular as in Days Gone By.

The Diamond well is not the popular drinking fountain it has been for many years, and people who patronized it regularly each evening now drink the fluid dispensed by the city. The falling off in custom is due to the peculiar taste of the water and the agitation against the present supply. People fear to drink the water because they know there is doubt in the mind of the board of health, and there will be no great rush to imbibe until after the analysis has been completed and the announcement made that the water is all right.

KILLED THE DOG.

It Was Valuable, but Bit a Small Boy.

A valuable pug dog owned by T. Mills Bennett, of Wucherer addition, was killed yesterday afternoon because it bit a boy named McShane. The boy and dog were playing together, when the dog snapped, and took a piece of flesh from the youngster. It began to bleed, and for fear it was affected with rabies the animal was quickly killed. Mr. Bennett valued the animal at $75, and it has always been a pet, his children playing with it without fear of injury. The death of the dog caused sorrow among the youngsters who knew it.

LISBON'S BOOM.

It Is Whirling Around to the Satisfaction of All.

The Pittsburg Commercial Gazette of this morning contains a four column write up of Lisbon and its people excellent portraits of Congressman Taylor, Prosecutor Speaker, Judge Billingsley and Judge Young being given. The article tells of the glories of the county seat, and the wonderful prospects in store for its people. Some of the principal industries are touched upon, and the general conditions of the sleepy old town given a shaking up that will doubtless do it good.

SEVERAL HUNDRED OUT.

But Many Are Coming Home to Work.

A young man with an extensive acquaintance and a head for calculation has decided that the number in camps in this vicinity last week amounted to over 200. Of these the greater number came from the city, and a few were from Pittsburg. On Saturday night and Monday the campers began to come home, and some are now working in the potteries, but there are still over 100 out of town. He bases his calculations upon actual count.

SECURED QUARTERS.

The Bicycle Club Have Rented a Good Room.

Arrangements were completed today which give the Ceramic City Cycling Club good club quarters on Fifth street the room secured being in the Brindley building, and at present occupied by Frank Risinger. As soon as he can arrange to move out, which will not be later than the middle of next week the room will be furnished, and the club will open it with appropriate ceremonies. The next road race will end at the club room.

TO DECIDE TO-NIGHT.

The Sewer Commissioners Will Talk About Peach Tree.

The sewer commissioners will meet in the office of Engineer George this evening for the purpose of settling the vexed question of Peach Tree alley. It has been virtually decided that a sewer must be built, and the only question is the direction in which the water will flow. There are two openings, and these have been thoroughly investigated by Engineer George. The meeting is called for his office at city hall.

HAS GONE TO THE WALL

L. Esterline Lost Money at the Hilbert House.

GOODS ATTACHED THIS MORNING

He Is Out $2,500 on the Investment With Some Obligations Yet Unsettled—Liquor Dealers Have Bills For Collection—Disputed Property.

L. Esterline, who came here from Johnstown, Pa., and leased the Hilbert House, is in financial straits, and legal complications may follow.

The bar was closed yesterday, and the door locked, while the furniture was packed for shipment to Da Boise, Pa. At an early hour this morning the goods were loaded on a car, and would now be speeding to their destination in the mountain town but for the sudden appearance of Constable Lyon this morning. Esterline failed to settle with G. W. Meredith and Ferd Oeshman, and on the complaint of the latter the goods were attached. Esterline claimed they were the property of his son and could not be touched, but the constable failed to see the claim in that light, and the attachment was not lifted. Among the creditors was W. J. Martin who had a peculiar claim. He owned some articles in the bar room, but could not reach them because the door was locked. He waited the greater part of the morning for some one to appear, and let him in.

Mr. Esterline has been here but a few months, and lost money from the start. He was a good hotel man, and knew the business from the bottom. When John Robinson left the house he leased it, and from that time until the present has lost $2,500. He decided to move out, and the legal complications are the result.

The attachment is for $55.65, and is on an action filed in the court of Squire Manley. A few articles that remained in the house were also attached, and the date of hearing set for next Monday.

In defense of his position Esterline produces a lease which shows the goods in the hotel were leased to him by his son on the agreement that he would pay the rent. It is for one year from May 1.

A DREAM OF THE FUTURE.

Racing by Electric Light in the East End.

Editor News Review—When East Liverpool gets on its feet again and the people have money to spend for pleasure the man who leases the drying park, puts electric lights around the ring and has races at night will get rich. With the street car line extended to the track and a grand stand built for spectators it would be a paying investment, and people would patronize it liberally. This town will always pay to see something good, and sport of that kind would be a blessing to some of the people who loaf in the Diamond every evening.

SOCIETY WEDDINGS.

They Will Take Place Within the Next Few Months.

The friends of a number of prominent society people are awaiting the announcement of weddings in the near future. The old dame who whispers about these things says they will come off in the early fall, and there will be no less than three or four. All the young people are well known, and count their friends in the city by the hundred.

Not to be outdone by its big sister Wellsville is also expecting a wedding, the contracting parties being a charming young woman and a minister who is well known in this place.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE.

Particularly When It Is in the News Review.

W. J. Harvey, the Walnut street grocer, spent 25 cents last night in the News Review, advertising for a clerk of experience. The want asked the applicant to call at this office, and before 8 o'clock this morning no less than seven applicants had been in and asked the name of the grocer. Later in the day others were after the place. It pays to advertise in a paper that is read by the people.

Foreign Talent.

The managers of the colored campmeeting expect a large attendance on Sunday, and have engaged ministers from Steubenville and other points. The chorus will also be re-enforced on that day.

May Locate Here.

Mr. Dunkerly, who has been the proprietor of the Goucher hotel in Toronto has given up the house, and will locate in this city or Wellsville.

PULL together, encourage enterprise and make East Liverpool the flower of the upper Ohio valley.

WHAT'S WRONG with the Democrats and Populists fusing in this county?
It would be a combination that could
at least attract attention from Mr.
Coxey.

WITH crockery protected the potter was paid more money than with crockery unprotected. Republicanism is protected crockery. Democracy is a low duty or no duty.

COLONEL BRICE has been quiet for
as much as three days, but that is not alarming. Perhaps the wealthy New Yorker-Ohioan is killing time by signing checks for the coming campaign.

THE congressmen who sweated in Washington this time last year are cool and quiet enough just now. They have no official duties to annoy them, for which kind Providence many thanks.

AN imaginative writer has sent the NEWS REVIEW a prophesy showing East Liverpool at the beginning of the next century. If the name of the gifted prophet is sent to this office the article will be published.

THE principal excuse for that Chicago debate seems to be the desire of Mr. Harvey and the wish of Mr. Horr to make a little money, and to the present time Harvey has not declared his intention to take only silver, nor has Horr demanded his pay in gold.

It will not be long until the eyes of the world turn to that town in Texas where two men will battle like two beasts. The success of the prize fight depends upon the brutality of the fighters. The so-called sport possesses not one redeeming feature to commend it, and the day it dies will see another step toward the goal of perfect civilization. We are not civilized when we admire prize fights and cheer the blood covered combatants as heroes.

WATCH THEM.

It is sincerely hoped for the good of all concerned that there will be no deviation from the fixed rule this year, and every Republican candidate will be elected with a rousing majority. They are men who will not betray the faith of the people, and will fill the duties of their respective offices as they have trod the walks of private existence. From the head to the smallest and least remunerative office on the ticket the candidates have been successful as citizens, and there is every reason to believe they will be successful as officials. Efforts will be made, as the Democratic organization always makes, to show these men in a false light. No scheme known to their peculiar brand of politics will be left untried. The defeats of the past will be for the time forgotten, and that old cry of minority representation will sound again, as though the people have not declared at many elections that they want no minority representation when it comes from Democracy. But the Republicans of the county should be on the lookout. Let every man favoring good government and an honest administration keep his eyes wide open for the customary prevarications, for it is only the matter of a few weeks until they begin to shine.

HARVEY-HORR DUEL.

Outsiders Take a Hand in the Scrimmage.

THE ACT OF 1873 UNDER DEBATE.

Harvey Forces Mr. Horr to Take Up This Subject, Leaving the Unit to Take Care of Itself—A Lively Tilt on Several Interesting Points.

(Copyrighted by Axel F. Hatch.)

CHICAGO, July 13.—The Harvey-Horr duel developed into a general engagement, representatives of Philadelphia, Kansas City and Cleveland and elsewhere pitching into the scrimmage after the two principals had hacked each other up to the limit. The outsiders who ventured into the fight included H. L. Bliss, O. B. Gunn and E.
B. Starr. The actual debate opened by Mr. Harvey saying:

"Thus far we have considered two questions, gold and silver as the money of the constitution and the unit of value in our monetary system fixed by the framers of the constitution, and that what existed as our monetary unit from 1792 to 1873. The debate on these two points in the minds of the people—a doubt that has been produced by misrepresentations, made by those advocating the gold standard. The reading of the debate thus far settles these two questions in favor of the book we are discussing."

Mr. Horr said: "The matter we were talking about when we closed was the question whether the framers of the bill of 1792 intended to establish two measures of value. Mr. Harvey criticized Judge Vincent for having decided that case in his remarks yesterday, but very tamely in comparison with the statements which he made about him in print soon after he made the decision. He even called him dishonest in that criticism. Now, Judge Vincent is a reputable citizen, I take it, of Chicago. Some private individuals submitted a question to him and he decided it as he honestly believed was right, and there is this peculiarity about it, it is right. [Laughter.] Here is what Judge Vincent decided: 'It is undoubtedly true that the milled dollar, as it was then current, was the starting point and the number of grains that composed a gold dollar was ascertained by dividing the number of grains in the silver dollar by 15.'"

"But this does not alter the fact that the units were expressed in gold and silver. On the contrary it seems to show that both were made units of value. The word unit was employed as the equivalent of dollar and the dollar was to consist of either one of two different things, one-tenth part of 247½ grains of gold or 371½ grains of silver just as equal values may be embodied in given weights of any two given commodities, such as wheat or corn. A unit of value is the unit in which values are expressed. The values both of gold and silver are expressed in the act of 1792, so we have two units of value. We have two units of value. If both had not been so expressed we could not have bimetallism."

Mr. Horr also quoted ex-Director of the Mint E. O. Lerch, that the laws authorize both a gold dollar unit and a silver dollar unit, different from each other in intrinsic value. That was the reason he (Lerch) proposed the law of 1873.

Mr. Harvey said: "Yesterday at the close after I had quoted as authority for silver being the unit, the statute itself, the utterance of Secretary Gallatin, a decision by Chief Justice Chase of the supreme court of the United States, and other numerous authorities, including Roswell G. Horr of New York, Mr. Horr then admitted that the silver dollar was the unit of value, and the record of yesterday shows that as long as there is nothing novel in the name I purpose to show you during this discussion that no law has been ever passed by the American congress which was more completely and fully understood than the law of 1873. The statement which he read to you that the scheme was concocted in London is a simple assertion upon which he cannot produce one scientific repulsive argument, not one word. It has been a good many years since England dictated the legislation of this country. They have had trouble to do it since 1776. [Laughter.] They would experience as much difficulty now as they did then if they should attempt it. The law of 1873 had its origin, as all such laws have, in the brains of experts. The question of copper, mintage, is a most intricate one."

"It is one of the most complicated problems with which philosophical men have ever grappled. It has been a process of development from the earliest stages of humanity down to the present time which has given us the perfect system of money, though not perfect, as perfect as it has come to be, at this time. If anybody will read the reports of the Confederate congress of the United States, the one that came immediately after the Colonial congress, they will find that all the men who even assumed to be able to discuss the matter intelligently could be counted on the fingers of my two hands."

Mr. Harvey said: "Mr. Horr says that I have no proof that the scheme was concocted in London to demonetize silver in the United States. When I was a boy I went into a courthouse one day to hear a criminal trial, and I heard a lawyer say, 'When a crime is committed and you want to detect the criminal, look for the man that is benefited by the crime.' [Applause.] Reasoning by induction will more invariably locate the criminal than any other human testimony."

"Silver was demonetized in England, and in England only, prior to the day it was demonetized in this country.
That was where the movement started.
—that is another evidence—London bankers initiated the conference of 1867, at which Mr. John Sherman was present. Therefore I have the right to say the conspiracy originated in London."

"Mr. Horr says that the science of money is hard to understand. Ever since the money lenders of the world shackled the people of the world and taught the people that money was hard to understand, and that it is one of the difficult things, as Mr. Horr once said in his speech: 'It gives me a headache to think of it' (laughter);
and you are not competent to study it or understand it, and as long as they can make you believe that they have you in their power. You may study chemistry and can understand the most difficult problems of science, chemistry and other sciences that would make a banker's head dizzy to contemplate, we are told, you cannot understand the simple proposition of money, that which you come into the use of every day.
Mr. Horr has only taught in this debate a proposition that it is the interest of every selfish money lender in the world to advocate, and he is here advocating
it. [Applause.]

"In 1873, when this treacherous act was passed, there was no specie currency in this country. During all the years from 1792 to 1861, when it was actually in use and being tested for its merit, no one proposed to demonetize either of the metals, except some money lenders from Europe who proposed it in 1834. [Applause.] But at that time, 1873, when it was not in circulation and the real need of the movement was begun and consummated. And as one congressman said when the bill was offered in congress, 'We are not using gold and silver as money, have not yet considered an act for the resumption of specie payment, and the introduction of this bill at the present time either means a trick or is a farce worthy of being car-icatured by Thomas Nast.'"

The gentlemen mentioned in the opening paragraph then piled the two contestants with questions, outsiders had also sent in questions, which were answered.

escaped. Many Indians are reported here threatening the lives and property of the settlers.'"

FALSE TO THE CHINESE.

Port Arthur Betrayed to the Japs by the Commander, Who Suicided.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 13.—The ease
with which the Japanese captured Port Arthur during the war with China is explained to some extent by an article in the Japanese Gazette, which arrived on the last steamer.

According to the Gazette the commander of the Chinese forts was a native of Japan, and who had acquired favor in China councils through long residence in the Flowery Kingdom, and intentionally caused the shots from the guns to be misdirected, so they could fall short of the Japanese warships, having betrayed his adopted land for the land of his birth. The disgraced commander appeared before the victorious Japanese generals acknowledged his treason, and committed suicide in their presence.

A Whispering Gallery Found.

COLORADO SPRINGS, July 13.—Prof.
Burrill and Davenport of the University of Illinois say they have discovered a phenomenon in the Garden of the Gods. The fact is this: If a person places himself near the center of the east side of the rock, north of the entrance, and another stands upon the hill opposite, across the valley, a distance of about a third of a mile, common conversation can be distinctly heard between the two. They lowered their voices as much as possible, and were able to hear each other very distinctly.

the outside. Mr. Knight saw a man disappearing in the darkness on the sidewalk. He shot at him and was horrified to find that he had fatally wounded his best friend, John Wehrle, county clerk. Wehrle is still alive, but the bullet pierced his abdomen and the physicians have little hope of his recovery.

to remain at Gray Gables for some little time.

PULL together, encourage enterprise
and make East Liverpool the flower of the upper Ohio valley.

WHAT'S wrong with the Democrats
and Populists fusing in this county?
It would be a combination that could
at least attract attention from Mr.
Coxey.

WITH crockery protected the potter
was paid more money than with crockery unprotected. Republicanism is protected crockery. Democracy is a low duty or no duty.

COLONEL BRICE has been quiet for
as much as three days, but that is not
alarming. Perhaps the wealthy New Yorker-Ohioan is killing time by signing checks for the coming campaign.

THE congressmen who sweated in Washington this time last year are cool and quiet enough just now. They have no official duties to annoy them,
for which kind Providence many
thanks.

AN imaginative writer has sent the
NEWS REVIEW a prophesy showing East Liverpool at the beginning of the next century. If the name of the
gifted prophet is sent to this office the article will be published.

THE principal excuse for that Chicago debate seems to be the desire of Mr. Harvey and the wish of Mr. Horr to make a little money, and to the present time Harvey has not declared
his intention to take only silver, nor
has Horr demanded his pay in gold.

IT will not be long until the eyes of the world turn to that town in Texas
where two men will battle like two
beasts. The success of the prize fight depends upon the brutality of the
fighters. The so-called sport possesses
not one redeeming feature to commend it, and the day it dies will see another step toward the goal of perfect civilization. We are not civilized
when we admire prize fights and cheer
the blood covered combatants as heroes.

WATCH THEM.

It is sincerely hoped for the good of
all concerned that there will be no
deviation from the fixed rule this
year, and every Republican candidate
will be elected with a rousing majority. They are men who will not betray the faith of the people, and
will fill the duties of their respective
offices as they have trod the walks of
private existence. From the head to the smallest and least remunerative
office on the ticket the candidates
have been successful as citizens, and there is every reason to believe they will be successful as officials. Efforts will be made, as the Democratic
organization always makes, to show
these men in a false light. No scheme
known to their peculiar brand of politics will be left untold. The defects of the past will be for the time forgotten, and that old cry of minority
representation will sound again, as
though the people have not declared
at many elections that they want no
minority representation when it comes
from Democracy. But the Republicans of the county should be on the lookout. Let every man favoring good government and an honest administration keep his eyes wide open for
the customary prevarications, for it is only the matter of a few weeks until
they begin to shine.

HARVEY-HORR DUEL.

Outsiders Take a Hand In the Scrimmage.

THE ACT OF 1873 UNDER DEBATE.

Harvey Forces Mr. Horr to Take Up This
Subject, Leaving the Unit to Take Care of Itself—A Lively Tilt on Several Interesting Points.

[Copyrighted by Axel F. Hatch.]

CHICAGO, July 15.—The Harvey-Horr
duel developed into a general engagement, representatives of Philadelphia,
Kansas City and Cleveland and elsewhere pitching into the scrimmage
after the two principals had hacked
each other up to the limit. The outsiders who ventured into the fight included H. L. Bliss, O. B. Gunn and E.
B. Starr. The actual debate opened by
Mr. Harvey saying:

"Thus far we have considered two
questions, gold and silver as the money
of the constitution and the unit of
value in our monetary system fixed by
the framers of the constitution, and
that what existed as our monetary unit
from 1792 to 1873. The debate on these two points in the minds of the people
a doubt that has been produced by
misrepresentations, made by those advocating the gold standard. The reading of the debate thus far settles these two questions in favor of the book we
are discussing."

Mr. Horr said: "The matter we were talking about when we closed was
the question whether the framers of
the bill of 1792 intended to establish
two measures of value. Mr. Harvey criticized Judge Vincent for having decided that case in his remarks yesterday, but very tamely in comparison with the statements which he made
about him in print soon after he made
the decision; he even called him dishonest in that criticism. Now, Judge Vincent is a reputable citizen. I take it,
of Chicago. Some private individuals submitted a question to him and he decided it as he honestly believed was
right, and there is this peculiarity about
it, it is right. [Laughter.] Here is what Judge Vincent decided: 'It is undoubtedly true that the milled dollar,
as it was then current, was the starting point and the number of grains that
composed a gold dollar was ascertained
by dividing the number of grains in the silver dollar by 15.'"

"But this does not alter the fact that
the units were expressed in gold and silver. On the contrary it seems to show that both were made units of
value. The word unit was employed as
the equivalent of dollar and the dollar
was to consist of either one of two different things, one-tenth part of 247 1/2 grains of gold or 371 1/4 grains of silver
just as equal values may be embodied
in given weights of any two given commodities, such as wheat or corn. A unit
of value is the unit in which values are expressed. The values both of gold and silver are expressed in the act of 1792,
so we have two units of value. We
not been so expressed we could not have
bimetallism."

Mr. Horr also quoted ex Director of the Mint, E. O. Leach, that the laws authorizing a gold dollar unit and a silver dollar unit, different from each other in intrinsic value. That was the reason he (Leach) proposed the law of 1873.

Mr. Harvey said: "Yesterday at the close, after I had quoted as authority
for silver being the unit, the statute law, the statute of Secretary Gallatin, a decision by Chief Justice Chase
of the supreme court of the United States, and other numerous authorities,
including Roswell G. Horr of New York, Mr. Horr then admitted that the
silver dollar was the unit of value, and the record of yesterday shows that.
Now, in view of his attempt to try to twist something back into the discussion which we are to believe him as saying one thing yesterday and something else today I leave him to such fate as the readers of this debate think is proper. [Applause.] We agreed to take up the subject of demonetization, the act of 1873, in today's debate, and having waited for him to begin and he not beginning, I now will start." [Applause.] Mr. Harvey then discussed at length the act of 1873.

Mr. Horr, following on this subject, said: "We now come to the discussion of the law which changed this nation from a bimetallic nation to a single standard nation, the law of 1873, which Brother Harvey kindly names a 'crime.' It has been called that as long as there is nothing novel in the name I purpose to show you during this discussion that no law has been ever
passed by the American congress which
was more completely and fully understood than the law of 1873. The statement which he read to you that the scheme was concocted in London is a simple assertion upon which he cannot produce one scintilla of reputable truth, not one word. It has been a good many years since England dictated the legislation of this country. They have had trouble to do it since 1776. [Laughter.] They would experience as much difficulty now as they did then if they should attempt it. The law of 1873 had its origin, as all such laws have, in the brains of experts. The question of coinage, mintage, is a most intricate one."

"It is one of the most complicated
problems with which philosophical men
have ever grappled. It has been a process of development from the earliest
stages of humanity down to the present
time which has given us the perfect
system of money, though not perfect,
as perfect as it has come to be, at this time. If anybody will read the reports of the Confederate congress of the United States, the one that came immediately after the Colonial congress,
they will find that all the men who
even assumed to be able to discuss the
matter intelligently could be counted
on the fingers of my two hands."

Mr. Harvey said: "Mr. Horr says
that I have no proof that the scheme
was concocted in London to demonetize silver in the United States. When I was a boy I went into a courthouse one
day to hear a criminal trial, and I heard
a lawyer say, 'When a crime is committed and you want to detect the
criminal, look for the man that is benefited by the crime.' [Applause.] Reasoning by induction will more invariably locate the criminal than any uncertain human testimony."

"Silver was demonetized in England,
and in England only, prior to the day
it was demonetized in this country.
That was where the movement started
—that is another evidence. London bankers initiated the conference of 1867, at which Mr. John Sherman was present. Therefore I have the right to say the conspiracy originated
in London."

"Mr. Horr says that the science of money is hard to understand. Ever since the money lenders of the world
shackled the people of the world and
taught the people that money was hard to understand (applause); that it is one of the difficult things, as Mr. Horr once said in his speech: 'It gives me a
headache to think of it' (laughter),
and you are not competent to study it
or understand it, and as long as they can make you believe that they have it in their power. You may study chemistry and can understand the most difficult problems of science, chemistry and other sciences that would make a banker's head dizzy to contemplate,
we are told, you cannot understand the
simple proposition of money, that which you use into the use of every day.
Mr. Horr has only taught in this debate
a proposition that it is the interest of
every selfish money lender in the world
to advocate, and he is here advocating
it. [Applause.]

"In 1873, when this treacherous act was passed, there was no specie currency in this country. During all the years from 1792 to 1861, when it was actually in use and being tested for its
merit, no one proposed to demonetize
either of the metals, except some money lenders from Europe who proposed it in 1854. [Applause.] But at that time, 1873, when it was not in circulation and was not needed, the movement was begun and consummated. And as one congressman said when the bill was offered in congress, 'We are not using gold and silver as money, have not yet considered an act for the resumption of specie
payment, and the introduction of this bill at the present time either means a trick or is a force worthy of being car-icatured by Thomas Nast.'"

The gentlemen mentioned in the opening paragraph then plied the two contestants with questions. Outsiders had also sent in questions, which were answered.

FALSE TO THE CHINESE.

Port Arthur Betrayed to the Japs by the Commander, Who Suicided.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 15.—The ease
with which the Japanese captured Port Arthur during the war with China is
explained to some extent by an article in the Japanese Gazette, which arrived on the last steamer.

According to The Gazette the commander of the Chinese forts was a native of Japan, and who had acquired favor
in China councils through long residence in the Flowery Kingdom, and intentionally caused the shots from the
guns to be misdirected, so they could
fall short of the Japanese warships, having betrayed the adopted land for the hand of his birth. The disgraced commander appeared before the victorious Japanese generals, acknowledged his treason, and committed suicide in their presence.

A Whispering Gallery Found.

COLORADO SPRINGS, July 15.—Prof.
Burrill and Davenport of the University of Illinois, say they have discovered a phenomenon in the Garden
of the gods. The fact is this: If a person places himself near the center
of the east side of the rock, north of
the entrance, and another stands upon
the hill opposite, across the valley, a distance of about a third of a mile,
common conversation can be distinctly
heard between the two. They lowered
their voices as much as possible, and
were able to hear each other very distinctly.

disappearing in the darkness on the sidewalk. He shot at him and was horrified to find that he had fatally
wounded his best friend, John Wehrle,

the bullet pierced his abdomen and the
physicians have little hope of his re-

THROUGH A BRIDGE.
A Train Drops In Colorado on the Santa Fe.
THREE CRUSHED TO DEATH.
Twelve Persons Injured, Three of Whom Will Likely Die. The Others Terribly Injured—One Man Leaps to Death Trying to Save a Woman.

MONUMENT, Colo., July 18.—A gang has been at work, building a dangerous bridge on the Santa Fe, a quarter of a mile south of town. More than three-quarters of the bridge is built and still stands intact. A freight train, on account of a weak trestle, has fallen through, piling up in a most frightful manner, grinding the cars into kindling wood and heaping the immense weight on the body of Mrs. Albert Cooper, who had just brought her husband's luncheon and was sitting under the bridge. J. C. Childers, bridge carpenter, saw the peril of Mrs. Cooper and jumped off the bridge to save her, and was carried under the ruins with her.

The work of clearing the wreck is being pushed rapidly. The cars are ground into splinters and are mixed with heavy bridge timbers, stone and freight. The list of killed is as follows: Mrs. Albert Cooper, Kansas City; J. C. Childers, Kansas City, and an unknown tramp.

The injured are: Mark Wickens, engineer, will die; Charles Gardner, brakeman, will die; J. N. Erby, brakeman, will die; James Call, hip broken; Henry Allen, broken leg; Charles Rue, leg broken; Wallace Cooper, Lamar, Colo., head cut and back hurt; J. W. Cole, bridge contractor, broken arm; Charles Stonehouse, foreman of bridge gang, both legs broken; H. C. Bookert, head and shoulders cut; Shaw, hip crushed and head cut, and Charles Hallock, back hurt.

COLUMBIA, July 18.—An important meeting has been held here of committees having in charge the approaching institute of the Young People's Christian union of the United Presbyterian church. The institute will convene in this city Aug. 21. Speakers of national reputation have been secured on the programme. A trained choir of 200 voices, under Prof. Laflerty of Pittsburgh, will be a feature. A low rate of half fare has been secured of railroad lines. Three thousand delegates are expected from all parts of the United States and Canada.

Olsen was teasing the colored man and finally threw a cobblestone into his basket of cakes. The negro turned quickly and struck Olsen back of the ear with his fist. Olsen dropped like a log and was dead before the hospital ambulance reached him.

Mich Gave Miners Still Out.
ISHPEMING, Mich., July 18.—The Ishpeping and Negaunee miners are still out, and there is little prospect of an immediate settlement. About 3,000 miners held another secret meeting at the park midway between the two cities. All manner of work save the operation of the pumps has been suspended. The ore trains on the northwestern and the south shore lines has been abandoned, and no attempt is being made to load cars.

Of the injured, six are in the hospital and 12 at their homes.

The fire started in the 5-story hay and feed warehouse of J. H. Hermes & Co., at the Water and Walnut streets. It spread so rapidly as to threaten the entire square, bounded by Walnut, Water, Vine and Front streets, and a general alarm soon called out the entire department. The square is almost all in ashes and the flames at times came very near reaching buildings across the streets. It is believed the fire originated from a match or cigar stump, thrown carelessly near the hay.

Those burned entirely out are: L. Seaman's company, leaf tobacco, loss $85,000; insurance $70,000; George O. Brown, commission, loss, stock $25,000, building $3,000, insurance $21,000; H. L. Smith, stables; Nelson Morris & Co.'s stables; Kleine & Quirk, commission; Simmons & Norris, commission; Langley, Garlick & Co., river supplies; J. D. Peacock, naval supplies.

Too Zealous Policeman In Trouble.

The Malleable ironworks at Marion has reduced its stock, and with an increase of business, hopes to put the industry on a paying basis.

State Food Commissioner McNeal's annual report shows that the food analysis made at the order of the department during the year cost $8,400.

John C. Corbett of Tiffin was commissioned adjutant of the Third battalion of the Second Infantry.

Adjutant General Howe has issued orders for the emancipation of the 5,700 negroes of Johnson's island from Aug. 5 to Aug. 10, and the emancipation of the seven-thousand infantry at Presque Isle, near Toledo, Aug. 20 to 25.

LOCAL BREVITIES.
A little child of Samuel Faulk, of West End, is quite ill.

The Northside chapel scholars held a picnic at McKinnon's grove yesterday. The affair was a very enjoyable one.

The Cleveland and Pittsburg company have painted some of the old passenger cars, and they look almost as good as new.

A party of boys playing near the shower bath on the other side of the river killed a large copper head snake yesterday afternoon.

The families of U. G. King, J. B. Taylor and George Elliott picnicked at National Park yesterday, spending a delightful day in the grove.

The picnic given by St. Stephen's Episcopal Sunday school at Rock Spring yesterday was attended by a large crowd, and all spent a delightful day.

The grass and weeds in the yard in front of the new central school building have been cut, and the yard is being levelled off with the addition of several loads of loam. It will present a good appearance.

Cyclist George Hale will go to Latrobe, Pa., Saturday where he is entered in the races. Owing to the rain and other difficulties encountered the Beaver Valley team did not go to the Shelby races.

A rumor was on the streets yesterday that W. J. McKinney would sell out and move to Allegheny with his family. Mr. McKinney said he had heard the story, but that there was no truth whatever in the statement.

The river has continued to fall until it is now at a stage causing navigation to be no longer thought of. The usual low water marks the bed of the river at Babb's island, is in some places above the surface there.

The Merry Old Bachelors picnic is being held today at Fredericktown instead of George's grove, as those in charge changed their minds at a late date. A good sized crowd of the original bachelors and their lady friends are enjoying the day.

A small boy came near furnishing work for the undertaker the other day. He asked for cards in an uptown drug store, and because he didn't have any the clerk gave the boy a sample bottle of cough syrup. The lad drank it all at a swallow, and that he was sick can well be imagined.

In justice to the street car management here it can be said that care is taken to see that the motormen are not reckless. Long before the catastrophe at Franklin street a motorman was suspended for running over the East End crossing before a train and he was only reinstated a few days ago.

If there was one street electric light in the city that attracted more bugs than another last night it was located at the corner of Third and Washington streets. As a street car passed through the cloud and a passenger removed a peck of bugs from beneath his shirt band he remarked that it looked like a snow storm.

The young man, Byron Booth, who was taken to the Cleveland asylum yesterday will miss a good friend who has stayed with him during the greater part of his confinement. That person is his mother, and it was not an ordinary sight to see mother and son occupying the same cell when neither had committed any offense.

One of the sights at the passenger station yesterday afternoon was a woman not over 30 years of age endeavoring to control six children.

They called her mamma, and she was evidently their mother, for the oldest was not over seven and the youngest was a babe in her arms. They attracted no little attention.

Miss Mattie Hayes, who has been visiting relatives in St. Clair township, left for her home in Sullivan, Ind., yesterday. Miss Hayes, who is the daughter of John T. Hayes, at one time a member of Columbiana county bar, has not been here for 20 years, and received a glad welcome from her many friends in this vicinity.

A letter from Boston contains the interesting information that a member of the party from this city enjoyed a joke at the expense of his host in the Hub. There was a gas jet in the room, and before retiring the first night he turned the conversation upon that subject, leading his new friends to believe that he knew nothing about aeriform fluids. When in the room the host carefully explained the gas jet, but the Liverpool man was so slow of comprehension that he excused himself for a minute and upon returning brought a lamp.

The new government dredge boat that was launched in Pittsburgh today and will be used on the Ohio has no means of propulsion, but will be towed from point to point. From the bow projects six long shafts on the outer edge of which are propellers. They are driven into the sand bar, and in revolving tear out the sand mixing it with the water. Big centrifugal pumps bring up the mud, and carry it back through the boat. There it is received in a pipe line, and carried any desired distance. On the first rise the hull will be taken to Cairo where the machinery will be put in.

HOPE IN THE FUTURE

The Bridgewater Gas Company
May Build a Plant.

STOCKHOLDERS HOLD A MEETING

But the Result of their Deliberation Has Not Yet Been Announced—The Project Has Been in Sight for Months—To Supply Wellsville and Liverpool.

The stockholders of the Bridgewater Gas Company have had their meeting, but the result has not yet been made public.

The particular point in which this city and Wellsville is interested in the construction of a plant for the manufacture of fuel gas in the West End. Early in the year it was announced that the plant would be built and in operation before winter came again, but for some reason not made public work was delayed until after the annual meeting, and as yet nothing has been heard from that, although a decision has probably been reached on the matter placed in the hands of a committee empowered to act. The plan is to adopt a successful system which the company controls, and build the plant at some convenient point between Wellsville and Liverpool. Then the towns could be supplied with gas. For several years Wellsville has been shut off in the dead of winter, and consumers there are hoping the company will have the proposed system in operation before cold weather comes again. Mr. Hunter, the local manager, has not yet been informed of the decision of the meeting.

The company announced today an increase in the rates of four cents per thousand. The new scale does not become operative until Oct. 1, and the price will be 25 cents per thousand. The arrangement is to continue one year.

ONE CASE LESS.

Caroline Smith Has Withdrawn Her Big Suit.

SPECIAL TO NEWS REVIEW.
LISBON, July 18.—Among the most important bits of news about the court house this morning was the word that Caroline Smith had withdrawn her suit against East Liverpool at her own cost, and it had been erased from the records.

Solicitor Clark stated this afternoon that Caroline Smith withdrew the suit because she had no cause for action. He thinks the demurrer of the city was sustained because she was confined in jail under the state law, as well as under the city ordinance. He denies that there was any attempt at compromise. The city knew it had a good case, and it did not cost one cent to have Mrs. Smith withdraw. She wanted $10,000 damages.

WILL CLOSE MONDAY.

But the Work of the County Court Is Ended.

SPECIAL TO NEWS REVIEW.
LISBON, July 19.—It is announced today that court will adjourn on Monday afternoon but the work is practically over and the jury was discharged last night. The last individual sentenced was John Patterson of Wellsville who pleaded guilty to larceny, and was sentenced to 20 days in the county jail. During the term 48 criminal cases were disposed of, a number which shows a visible increase in crime in the county or a marked improvement in the vigilance of the authorities.

May Term's Dying Gasps.

SPECIAL TO NEWS REVIEW.
LISBON, July 18.—The dying gasps of the May term was the winding up of some cases and changes in others. A deed was ordered in the sale of property in the case of R. J. Marshall against John Hargrave.

Jane Golding who is suing John S. Golding for divorce was given leave to file an amended petition.

The demurrer in the case of Arthur Harris, who sued the East Palestine Revelle for $10,000, was over-ruled.

Two Cases Appealed.

SPECIAL TO NEWS REVIEW.
LISBON, July 18.—Frank Tuilis, against whom Ella W. Allison secured a judgment for $8.75 in the court of Squire Rose, appealed it today. He claims an error in the record and asks a reversal of the judgment. The bill is for house rent.

A. W. Scott, who got judgment against James Blue in the court of Squire Riley last month for $100, will have another battle to fight, the case having been appealed today.

Notice show window of Joseph Bros. You will find exhibited suits that are worth $9, $10, $11, $12. They sell them at $6.66.

CAYLOR'S BALL GOSSIP

Features of a Very Close and Exciting Pennant Race.

PITCHER CLARKE WAS WASTED.

Caylor Thinks New York Would Have Won Last Year Had Ward Given Clarke a Chance—Uncle Anson as a Theatrical Star—Why Not Several Others?

Not for years has the race for the pennant in the National league been so close and exciting among so many clubs in mid-season. On July 11 there was less than two games' difference between the first and sixth clubs, while the New Yorks, in ninth position, despite their great handicap of injured players, were but 6 1/2 games behind the leaders. Only one club of the 12 on that date was above the 500 per cent mark, and seven were in the five hundreds. It is such a race which has brought baseball excitement to its highest pitch throughout the League circuit. The excitement of the race is not confined to spectators, but dominates the players also, is shown almost every day by reports of unusual trouble with umpires and by a "scrap" now and then between the members of contending nines. One of these unfortunate affairs occurred in Chicago during the visit of the New York team. Pitcher Clarke and Uncle Anson had a contention during the second game of the series. The Chicago chief was coming from the line near first, while Chicago players were on first and second bases. Anson claimed that the ball in use was ripped and asked for an investigation. Instead of throwing the ball to the umpire, Clarke thoughtlessly tossed it toward Anson for the purpose of letting the latter see for himself. Then the astute veteran turned a neat trick. Instead of catching the ball, he pretended to be surprised and dodged. The ball rolled away, and the base runners were permitted by the umpire to move up. One of them afterward scored the winning run. From that incident grew the report that Clarke had thrown the ball at Anson in a fit of rage. The fit of rage came after the trick, and when the game ended New York's worthy pitcher chased the umpire to cover. Anson's father-in-law at this point took up the cause and engaged Clarke in a fist fight. Just as Clarke concluded it was his time to run the police took him in charge. The Chicago officials ordered hands off by the police, after which Clarke got into the omnibus with the other players, and the whole team were driven off amid a storm of flying gravel and mud from the crowd. And such is the enthusiasm in Chicago this year, where last season a policeman had to go through the stands after games and wake up the "woozy" spectators who had dropped off into a doze during the progress of the contest, that the New Yorks in the series of three games in Chicago played to over 20,000 people, which is more than the combined attendance on their 12 games in the same city during 1893 and 1894.

Russie's performance in his two games against Anson on July 6 and 9, I believe, is unparalleled. So far as my memory serves me no pitcher previous to this time ever shut out an opposing team two successive games in the same series. Back in the eighties Tony Mullane, while pitcher for the Louisville, kept the Cincinnati from making a hit in 15 consecutive innings of two games. That Russie accomplished his feat against Anson's heavy hitting team makes the deed all the more remarkable.

Following this record a work came the 2 to 0 contest in Cleveland, where Clarke held the Spiders down to three hits and the New Yorks won another shut out game, the third of four played on their western trip. That is another record. If any visiting team ever won three shut out games in one trip, I do not remember the circumstance.

The pitching of Clarke this season has been the greatest surprise of the year. There has not been a pitcher among the best in the land. The big batsmen of Chicago, Cleveland and Baltimore will attest to his strength. Here is a man who was wasted by his club all of last season because the manager would not test him. He came into the National league from the Erie club, where he won the Eastern league pennant by his pitching. But Ward had no use for him, and he sat on the bench, except when the game was lost, and "any kind of an old pitcher" was needed to pitch out the forlorn hope. Had Ward alternated Clarke with Russie and Meekin there can be no doubt that the League pennant would have gone to New York instead of to Baltimore.

The pitcher problem is the greatest puzzle in baseball. Take the case of William H. Terry. Several years ago the Brooklyn club, after a long period of close shut out games, there were surprises going on elsewhere. The Brooklyn left home as conquering heroes and lost four of their first five games on the trip. The Baltimore met St. Louis' humble eleven players and lost two of the three games, winning the third only by a ten inning struggle. And the Boston, after a brilliant campaign in Pittsburgh, went to Louisville, where they were humbled by the lovely Colonels and barely escaped a shut out in the first game. It is all this uncertainty, coupled with undoubted proofs of the game's honesty, which has made baseball the national sport of America.

And now we are to have a baseball drama for the living stage, with A. C. Anson as the star. Well, why not Anson as well as Sullivan, Corbett and Fitzsimmons? Jefferson will soon be gone. Booth, Forrest, McCullough, Barrett and Davenport are dead. There is room for a baseball star. Poor Kelly had his entrance and his exit. Latham never rose above the plane of an ordinary $30 a week "ham." It remains for the grand old man to stir up the sluggish Thespian world. If he fails, it will not be for want of a good play, nor yet for a lack of nerve and self confidence. He will bet you a suit of clothes now that he'll knock the audience silly on his first night. If Anson succeeds on the stage, why not look to the diamond hereafter for our future stage stars? There are Russie and Ewing and Thompson and Nash and Foutz and Tebeau and Heckley and McGraw and Joyce and Welch, to say nothing of Mr. Von der Ahe in German comedy. The play's the thing to make the steaming gallery ring.

IN THE WHEELING WORLD.

C. E. Earl, the racing man, is an undertaker.

Frank M. Dampman, the wonderful Philadelphia rider, has become a professional.

Everett C. McClelland, the noted professional five mile runner, has taken up bicycling.

Sims is almost a trick rider as far as control of the wheel is concerned, and yet he is unlucky in having falls.

Johnson's winnings since he turned professional have doubled those ever made by any class B men in the same time.

It is said that last season Walter C. Sanger as an "amateur" got $7,000 in cash out of his speed as a racing man.

Barden, the English racing man, is out with a challenge to race any cyclist in the world for a stake, John S. Johnson preferred.

It is said that E. C. Bald and Sims, his riding partner, paid $6,000 each for a season's work, which lasts little more than three months.

A. G. Spalding does not deny having been considered by the trotting men in connection with the presidency of the trotting bicycle scheme.

John Lawson, the Terrible Swede, recently broke the 25 mile American road record, making the distance in 1 hour 3 minutes 15 seconds. This lowers the record 6 1/2 seconds.

The management of the Rhode Island State fair is planning the building of what it is proposed shall be the finest bicycle track in the country and will give $5,000 in cash and prizes at its bicycle meet Sept. 16.

One of the greatest dangers of track or road racing, says The American Wheelman, is the "looking backward" folly of the green and indeed experienced rider. The loss of power to the rider as well as the almost criminality of the act should prevent riders from doing it.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. G. Gundersen, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist church at River Junction she was brought down with pneumonia succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at T. L. Pott's drug store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.
